CHARLES E. STONE
DIES OF PARALYSIS

Charles E. Stone, aged 71 years, former Newark business man died this morning at 10:40 at the Newark Sanitarium of paralysis.

For years he had made Columbus his home, returning to Newark last fall. He suffered the first stroke on Christmas day, death came after the second stroke.

While a Newark resident he was a member of the firm of Hall and Stone, and conducted a shoe store in the location now occupied by the Linen store in West Main street.

His wife died about a year and a half ago. One son survives, Bert Stone, a traveling salesman, with headquarters in Michigan.

One brother William Stone, one sister Mrs. Thomas Lippincott, and two half brothers, Dr. J. N. Stone and Evan T. Stone all of this city and a half sister Mrs. Belle Webster of Frenchtown, New Jersey also survive.

The body was removed to Criss Brothers establishment.

Funeral arrangements have not been made pending the arrival of his son and daughter-in-law.

SHORT SKIRTS; HIGHER INSURANCE

Geneva.—Swiss women who wear short skirts and low-necked gowns will have to pay higher rates of life insurance than those who do not. The Swiss insurance companies have announced that fixing the premiums on policies of women's lives they will take into consideration the women's wearing apparel. The shorter the skirt or lower the neckline, the higher the insurance rate will be. The Swiss companies justify this action on the ground of a great increase of illness and disease among their women clients which they claim is due to the wearing of short skirts and low-necked dresses.

GERMANS PROFITEER IN MARRIAGE LICENSE TRAFFIC

Berlin.—Marriage licenses are being utilized for profiteering by Germans. The marriage "profiteer" developed out of the situation which has made necessary the strict "rationing" of housing space. A married couple or a pair about to be married may obtain permission to occupy certain rooms by presentation of the marriage license to the Housing Office.

It has been discovered that many marriage licenses have been issued to men and women who have no intention to marry but, having secured the license and the permission to occupy the number of rooms allotted to married persons, sell the "permission" to married folks or others who need rooms and cannot find them.

The officials say some profitable practice is being stopped by keeping a watch on those to whom marriage licenses are granted and withdrawing permission to occupy rooms unless the marriage is performed.

Marriages, however, eclipsed all other previous records in the last year. The number has increased two-fold over pre-war years, and many fold over the marriages during the war, which fell to less than half the normal number.

Many young folks today are getting married very simply to get a room cheaply," said a Berlin official. "The cost of the dwelling is cut in half by the marriage of a man and woman, both of whom are working. They also feel they can cooperate to some advantage in the matter of food, which is a serious problem."

The United States invested $41,573,948.225 in the world war, or $670,000,000 more than any other allied nation. Japan spent the least, with $181,518,900.

BANKING THE HOUSE WITH SHRUBS.

(BY EDWARD IRVING FARRINGTON)

If houses were built without foundations there would be no need of plants around the base to tie them to the ground. The average house, however, needs a massing of shrubs to unify it with the turf and make it appear like a permanent structure and not something which has simply been dropped there for a temporary stay. It is easy enough to test the correctness of this statement by looking first at a house which is devoid of planting, and then comparing it with another, which has been banked with shrubbery, especially if the planting is well done.

Admitting, then, that planting around the base of a house helps to make a home comfortable and adds to the joy of the owner, let us see what shrubs are available for the purpose. The list, as any nurseryman's catalogue will show, is a long one, but it is easy to see that a first choice will include those kinds which are reduced in character, and not too rank in growth, for we will have them as our intimate companions the year around.

Some people think, unfortunately, that they are doing the correct thing when they buy a mixture of evergreens and set them out at regular intervals across the front of the house. These evergreens plans may look pretty enough at first, but in the course of a few years they are bound to grow much too large for their location. Yet there is a distinct advantage in using evergreens for banking the house, because of their beauty in winter as well as in summer. It may be said in passing that the evergreens cost rather more than deciduous shrubs, but the fact may be offset by their value as year-round specimens.

Among the good kinds to use are the Japanese Yew, the low growing Juniper, rhododendrons, Mahonias, Leucothoae, and the various species of the Cypress, Mountain Laurel, Japanese Holly, Ilex crenata, and the Inkberry. Very likely you will not need all of these plants because most of them make a spreading growth and soon cover a wide area. The Inkberry, however, is a very narrow, upright growth and so may be used as accents for the planting scheme. They grow particularly well between windows, and bankings with almost any evergreen planting.

The Yews if left of themselves may grow too tall, but can be kept cut back and to be used when foliage about six feet high is desired. There is also a dwarf Japanese Yew known as Taxus brevifolia, which is almost as handsome as Boxwood, and grows very slowly. For a specimen at each side of the entrance, or perhaps at the corners of the house, you can use Mugho Pine, an interesting low growing round evergreen that looks like a big pin cushion.

Finally you will need the running plant known as Pachysandra, which will eventually carpet the ground under the shrubs and which keeps its leaves all the year around. The Japanese Pachysandra often can be used to even better advantage where deciduous shrubs are employed, adding much to their winter effect.

Suppose, however, that the house is to be banked with shrubs which lose their leaves in winter. It doesn't follow because of that fact that the planting need be without charm during the cold months, for if care is taken to choose such kinds as have attractive foliage in the fall and bright berries through the winter this planting will be a delight the year through. It is pleasant, too, to have a succession of flowers throughout the summer, although the mistake should be avoided of using shrubs in too great a variety, for if that is done a spotty or hodge-podge effect is produced.

If the house is a small one, a double row of shrubs may be sufficient. With a larger house it may be better to have three rows. They shouldn't be planted too close together and neither should they be graded exactly from the back to the front. But the shrubs should be spaced so that they will not crowd each other.

The meeting is open to all parents, the friends of Scouts and public is cordially invited to attend.

FAIRYLAND PLAY PLEASURES MUSIC CLUB AUDIENCE

A large audience at the High School auditorium last night migrated to fairyland, where some exceptionally clever comedy and some splendid song numbers were given by the members of the Women's club, in the presentation of "The Fire Prince".

Given under the direction of Miss Florence King, whose untiring efforts as a director has been attested on many other occasions in the city, the play proved a delightful entertainment.

It is the latest work of Henry Hadley, and the score of the fairy opera was exceptionally tuneful in many of the solos. The comedy roles of Grogno and Isadora, King and queen of Patouf, lost nothing in the presentation by Mrs. Daisy E. Symons and Mrs. James R. Fitzgibbon, and the movement was sustained throughout the play. Miss Ruth Ditter, who has not only a beautiful voice but ability to act, made a charming Rosa, the Spanish girl. Miss Bertha Doomey, also scored further success in her rendition of the title role, "The Fire Prince". Her solo numbers were very pretty.

Adding to the comedy Mrs. T. J. Evans did clever work in her delineation of the English butler.

The supporting cast was well selected and included Misses Mildred Close and Elizabeth King as the young brothers of "The Fire Prince"; Mrs. C. H. Kinney as the wise man; Mrs. Chandler Tucker as the Spanish ambassador; Mrs. J. B. Montanya as the officer at the embassy; Miss Fay Berry as the head page; Mrs. Harold Rickert and Mrs. F. H. Mozena as the nieces of the queen and Miss Winifred Fulton as a friend of Rosa. Mrs. C. W. Miller, very clever in her characterization of the Duchess, the honorary governess.

A feature of the play was the fairy ballet, trained by Miss Mary Windle. The personnel of the ballet included Emily Spencer, Margaret and Kitty Moran, Dorothy Davis and Margaret Montgomery. The pages were Isabel Hatch and Mary Elizabeth Corne, Mrs. James W. Jackson was accompanist for the evening.

The Lords and ladies of the court, sang the chorus numbers, and the following assisted: Mesdames W. W. Davis, B. R. Weld, W. C. Corne, Raymond Coyle, James Currie, M. J. Back, Norton Sutor, John Franklin, W. A. Dorey, Leola Randaxhe, J. C. Gamble, Misses Mary McClure, Mary Koonitz, Harriet Orr and Fay Berry.

Newark is indebted to the Music club for two very delightful light operas, last year the "Pines of Chrysanthemum" and last night's "The Fire Prince." Both were directed by Miss King.

BESSIE BARRISCALÉ IN "LIFE'S FRUIT" AT GRAND.
A cast of unusual excellence supports

Ensign, the first actor to appear on the screen. He is a member of well known families as well as in the war serial. "The Eagle's Eye."
Others in the cast whose established reputations won for them important roles in "Life's Fruit" include Marcia Mason, and whose exotic personality made her one of the outstanding characters in Mary Pickford's "Stella Maris." Truly Shattuck, musical comedy star, and character women of the screen, William V. Wong, equally famous character delineator, and Claire DuBrey, noted as a "woman heavy."

SPLENDID PICTURE IS SHOWN AT GRAND.

There are certain books and plays that, in their original form, were very great successes, but upon being transferred to the screen seem to lose much of their charm. On the other hand there are some that gain materially by the visualization of the story. Such a one is "The Palace of Darkened Windows," the National Picture which is lent work as the American girl whose curiosity leads her into great danger.

DO GIRLS RUN OFF FROM MARRIAGE?
MAYBE IT IS A CLEVER TRICK.
Does any girl ever really fear and try to escape marriage, especially if the man in the case is young and attractive?
Isn't she, as a matter of fact, more coolly calculating in matters of sentiment than the average male, more skilful in methods of alluring and enmeshing her victim, more determined to make her capture?

It is difficult to make a girl confess her real feelings and intentions, but if you could get a peep into the mind of any normal girl between the ages of eight and twenty-eight there is not the slightest doubt that you would find it filled with something like the following contents:

Thoughts of marriage in general 25 per cent.
Thoughts of some male or males in particular 40 per cent.
Thoughts of beauty and dress 25 per cent.
Thoughts of study, improvement, ambition 5 per cent.
Thoughts of selfishness, service and duty 1 per cent.
Thoughts of religion and ethics 1 per cent.

Determination to get married anyhow 3 per cent.
So the sight of a girl retreating shyly from the wooing male usually fails to impress the beholder with the genuineness of the lady's timidity. If any girl says she doesn't want to get married she is either fibbing or else she is a most unusual kind of girl.
Teddy Simpson, the irrepressible heroine of Elmer Harris' latest comedy, "Ducks and Drakes," now playing the Auditorium, didn't want to get married. But Teddy was both a fibber and a most unusual kind of girl. She was engaged, and yet she hated the very idea of marriage. Such gloomy monotony was all right for sad old ladies, she thought, but why should a light-hearted young girl give up all happiness and freedom forever by settling down in the restricting bonds of matrimony?

As played by the vivacious Miss Bebe Daniels, this role of Teddy Simpson, the unusual kind of girl who said she didn't want to get married and MEANT it is a most delightful one. Jack Holt plays the fiancé in this snappy comedy.
Other actors in the "Ducks and Drakes" cast include Edward Martin, William E. Lawrence, Wade Boteler and Mame Kelo. Major Maurice Campbell, who directed Miss Daniels in "Oh Lady Lady" and "She Couldn't Help It," has the direction of this new release to his credit, and an unusually good film is promised by the advance reports received from those who have seen the picture. This feature remains over Wednesday.

Drowning men clutch at straws; but on the other hand a floating debt isn't much of a life preserver either.

Robert Warwick is the Alhambra feature for the two days beginning today and is seen in the Paramount-Aircraft

Bessie Barriscale in "Life's Twist," the Robertson-Cole Special which will be seen for the next two days at the Grand theater. The picture is reported to show Miss Barriscale at the very pinnacle of her art as a dramatic actress.
Foremost among her supporting cast is Walter McGrath, the handsome and sympathetic young leading man, who scored so heavily in "Blind Youth" and other well known productions. His success is the fruit of many years of solid and substantial work on the screen. McGrath, as the well-bred husband of a pampered society girl, played by Miss Barriscale, gives a finished and highly polished portrayal of a young man who marries for money and then falls in love with his own wife.
King Eggert, that redoubtable character delineator of the screen, as the disappointed suitor, plays a role which is the nearest approach to those lovable villains who excite the sympathy and good wishes of the audience.

now showing at the Grand theater. The story moves along with a gradually increasing tempo and works up into a climax of great dramatic power. The contrast between the Orient and the Occident, from a psychological standpoint, has never been more clearly emphasized than in this motion picture. The suave crafty Indian Rajah who reveals his true nature once he has the American girl in his power, is a character that is typical of the Orient and Arthur Edmund Carew, who enacts the role, makes the part convincing. TIME OF THE SINGING OF THE BIRDS.

The time of the singing bird has come, wrote the author of the sacred Song of Songs, as the most vivid method of expressing the joy of the springtime.

Many people spend money freely to hear the manufactured music of opera houses, when even more beautiful notes are heard in the field surrounding their own towns.

The song of a bird has no words. In that it is not inferior to human singers, as the majority of vocalists do not pronounce their words distinctly. But how plainly the bird-song suggests certain ideas to the mind.

It seems to stand for home and country and love and friendship and beauty. If one suffers from grief, the birds speak more powerful consolation than any blundering words can bring. If one feels gay, the rhytmical warble of the feathered chorus stimulates the frolicsome spirit. Let us spend less time in merely artificial pleasures and more in contact with the voices of nature.

BUYING AT HOME.

Much has been said about the evil of the drift of population into large cities. Many people who regret this tendency, help promote by spending money away from their home communities.

When a person spends his money in Newark he knows that he is working to build up a healthful community, because he knows that his own town is a favorable place to live in. It has those facilities of education and social service that constitute a helpful environment for young people. In supporting the enterprise of this home community, we all can feel sure that we are promoting institutions that are working for national progress, and for the development of a high type of character.

When you spend money elsewhere, you can not be sure what the social results are. If you and a lot of your neighbors spend money in other places, the result is to injure business in this community. Enterprises here become less profitable. They must discharge some of their helpers in order to keep going. This reduces the commercial opportunities of your home community. Some young people who otherwise might grow up in these helpful surroundings, must in consequence migrate to other places where they can find a better business chance.

If such young people as a result of conditions that they find in large cities, or as result of being away from helpful home influences, suffer a decline in physical condition, if they yield to the temptations which come when people live among strangers, if their conduct and careers prove disappointing, some part of the responsibility may rest on you. You helped drive them away from your home community, by refusing to support your home town enterprises. You did not help your home community to develop in such a way that it could offer good business inducements to these young people.

RESTORING "NORMALCY."

Some people are helping bring back good business, and some are obstructing it. Producers and distributors who continue to ask high prices for their goods are in the latter class. But every manufacturer and dealer who cuts his prices down to the bone, who would rather keep moving even if he no more than gets a new dollar for an old one, he is doing a lot toward bringing better times.

And similarly the working people who insist on unchanged wages for themselves while all kinds of prices have been taking the toboggan, are also obstructing the return of good business.

The constant circulation of rumors about the solvency of this or that company tends to contract the processes of trade. About Christmas time, it was said in many centers, that the business men were in a bad hole, and the impression was given that many were not solvent.

But nearly two months have passed, and while there have been a good many failures, yet the proportion is small to the total number of people engaged in business. These reports are all exaggerations. Newark has had no business failures this year. The great majority of business men made money enough in the inflation period to carry them through the deflation era. In many sections holiday and winter trade has been excellent and big orders are now going on to producers.

Financial reports for the past month have been much more cheerful in tone, and many mills that were shut down have resumed operations. The great mass of the working people take wage readjustments cheerfully and reasonably. The worst of the credit strain has passed. Confidence and courage are now needed. Those who manifest those qualities will prosper in the good times ahead. Let us here in Newark be alert and wide awake enough to get into the procession before it passes us.

It is denied that the people always vote for the smoothest talker, as frequently they decide to support the most energetic handshaker.

Many of the men of Newark have business that keeps them away from home during the rug beating season.

Blonde women said to be too fickle for jury duty. Perhaps some of them decide to be brunettes for a while.

Shoe manufacturers have not so far manifested any opposition to short skirts.

THE RADIUM WOMAN.

(Columbus Citizen.)
In May, American will be visited by one of the world's most remarkable women and its greatest woman scientist—Marie Curie, 51 years old. She, with her husband, discovered radium, used in cancer treatment and for researches in higher science.

Although she was one of the discoverers of radium, Madame Curie has none herself for experimental purposes. So American women are going to present her with a grain, worth $120,000, when she arrives. It will be contained in a tube the size of the lead of a large pencil, about an inch long.

Madame Curie is Polish. She teaches at the Sorbonne university Paris, with nothing except her salary as teacher to depend upon, for unselfishly she did not patent her discovery but gave it to humanity.

The things in America that Madame Curie desires most to see are the Grand Canyon and the Pittsburgh plant where radium is manufactured commercially.

The Pittsburgh plant produces radium by refining ore from southeastern Colorado. Its output for the entire year 1920 was about 18 thimblesful—but it was worth $2,150,000.

Largely this was used for medical work, but you can thank Madame Curie when you tell time—on a watch by radium-illuminated watch dial, when you hit the radium-illuminated keyhole with your key, or when you snap on an electric light by means of the radium-illuminated switchblade that shines in the dark like a highhouse lantern on a black and stormy night.

Roughing it has various meanings, and the phrase is oftentimes ludicrously mistaken by many individuals. A friend with whom I once traveled thought he was roughing it daily for the space of three weeks, because he was obliged to lunch on cold chicken and uniced champagne, and when it rained he was forced to seek shelter inside very elegant hotels on the road.

DAUGHTERY'S FINE HAND.

(Philadelphia Record)
When Mr. Daugherty was still under consideration for the position in the Harding Cabinet which he now holds the interesting fact was developed that his was the persuasive tongue which secured the release from Atlanta prison of C. W. Morse, who had been temporarily sequestered there for certain financial transactions which a court held to be irregular. It will be recalled that several unsuccessful efforts had been made to obtain freedom for Morse on the ground that he was dying from his enforced confinement, and that his only chance for life lay in a Presidential pardon. Mr. Daugherty, who had been retained by interested parties to the imprisoned financier, presented his case with such convincing force to President Taft and Attorney General Wickersham that they were entirely won over. Morse was released to unconditional pardon, and at once set sail for Europe. So far was he from death's door that he quickly resumed his financial and speculative operations, which he has continued to this day. After leaving the Presidency Mr. Taft put on record that he regretted no single act of his administration so much as this pardon and the way in which he had been bamboozled into issuing it. The deception practiced on him was a source of great mortification to him.

This bit of history is recalled because of the extraordinary proceeding of Mr. Daugherty, now Attorney General of the United States, in respect to another distinguished inmate of Atlanta prison. To permit Eugene V. Debs to come to Washington without guard or escort, and there plead his case in person, seems as remarkable a way of transacting Government business as was the permission given by army officers to Grover C. Bergdoll to leave his cell to hunt for a pot of hidden gold. Debs seems to have respected the confidence placed in him, but the liberty accorded to him is a precedent as bad in its way as that of the pardon granted to the moribund Morse.

It is surely a curious coincidence that the same individual, Mr. Daugherty, should figure so prominently in these two cases involving flagrant offenders. As a lawyer his reputation must stand high among the gentlemen temporarily sojourning in Atlanta, and who have a not unnatural longing for breathing freedom. Daugherty has shown that he can get them out when no one else can.

LXIX.—Back To Town.

The Langwells took Nancy back to town in the morning.

The latter was not sorry to see the last of the ill-fated house-party.

"I had more sensations there in three days than I would have had at home in a year," she told herself, as she took a last backward glance through the limousine window of the blue waters of Lake Michigan, rippling in the sunlight.

She remembered the queer psychic depression which had enveloped her on the evening of her arrival, and felt justified that she had given way to her unnamed fear. Somehow she wanted to run away from the Langwells and the vital forces which seemed to encompass them. She wanted the dear, comforting strength of Gerry's arms. She longed to hear his tender, scoffing laugh by which he, greater of skepticism, always dismissed her fears and imaginings.

For a moment, a tiny panic seized her when she recalled Connie's queer message.

Could it be as Edith had suggested, that something had happened to Gerry? She dismissed her fear with a shrug. Gerry was safely sailing the Pacific. He had not yet met the dangers of adventure in tropical Peru.

Then, like a poignant knife-thrust, came the unwanted vision of the cheque bearing Gerry's signature made out to "Fleuriette et Cie."

That quiet sheeted form with its rigid, so strangely contrasted with the still white face that lay in a guest room at the Longwell country house, lived as vividly and poignantly as if its soul had not departed on the long journey into the infinite.

The trip back to town was made in comparative silence.

Edith was looking troubled. All the radiance of the night before had fled. There was no sign of the old Edith. But Nancy would have wagered much that they had not been left at "Loiter Long" for a housemaid to throw out, but were tucked carefully away in some part of Edith's luggage.

The doctor was looking thoughtful. Nancy, studying his face surreptitiously, could find no trace of relief there, nor was there any sign of regret. The passing of Fleuriette apparently meant no more to him than the death of the most casual patient in his hospital wards.

Miss Dean had been left in charge, calm, efficient, utterly poised. If Fleuriette had meant anything to her, as Nancy would have been willing to take oath after witnessing the nurse's first glance at her patient, Miss Dean successfully concealed it.

Nancy sighed absently, her eyes focused on the landscape that slid past the speeding car.

What a maze of mystery and intrigue!

She almost welcomed Connie Stanley's interference and high-handed manner of mixing up in everybody's affairs. Even little Peggy Lewis and her amazing impertinence was a wholesome thought, after the week-end of mystery and disaster.

Nancy was glad to see town again. She welcomed the traffic when they turned into Michigan Boulevard. The

LISTEN, WORLD!

There's an awful lot of Mildewed Muttters hanging around these days. If there's one thing that makes 'em mutter worse than another it's to see the Bloom of Youth a-blooming on some cheek where the blooming season's past. You'd think the road to Hell was paved with Cosmetics to hear 'em rave for the good old days when folks wore their skins "as is," and no one would have dreamed of coveting his neighbor's wife after one glance at the surface prospect.

Personally I'm glad the times have changed, even if the hair on some heads is long way from home and some ruby lips do taste like vanilla ice cream. I'm glad we've gone in for laughter and love and beauty even if it is only skin deep. Our outward appearance is our contribution to society—the only contribution we generally have a chance to make. Then for the love o' Mike, let's make it a pleasant one.

BEAUTY MAY BE ONLY SKIN DEEP, BUT WHO CARES WHAT YOUR INNARDS LOOK LIKE ANY MORE AS LONG AS YOUR SURFACE IS INSPIRING?

Perhaps we're a bit crude about it, and if we thought less of the powder on the end of our noses and more of the state of our immortal souls, we'd be civilized faster. On the other hand, look at the Citrus Fruit this country produced when all they DID think of was their immortal souls! You can't tell me that Heaven's any cooler for the presence of their curving old ghosts.

Bring on your cosmetics—bring on your gay deceit! Bring on anything that will make us like each other better and realize that BEAUTY ANY MORE AS LONG AS YOUR SURFACE IS INSPIRING!

We're keeping young and pretty and fit because it's the fashion—and who dare say that these things are not a truer sign of growing life than setting and looking as if you had a peevish tape-worm?

What Does Tax Exemption Mean?

Some conscientious investors may think that by purchasing a tax free security they are depriving the State of a revenue that would otherwise go to the State Treasury.

This is not true. Every Ohio corporation is obliged to pay its own taxes and the State secures its revenue direct from the company. It would therefore be unfair for the State to collect a second tax from the holder of the securities of that company, and it is on this principle that the securities of Ohio corporations are tax free to owners in Ohio.

Thus the benefit of tax exemption is a personal advantage that in no way lessens the rights of the State to enjoy the income from active industries within its borders.

Our Boys and Girls

Children's meals nowadays are as carefully considered as those of grown ups, and if the family meal is not adapted to the young folks needs special dishes are provided. Dessert usually means more to children than it does to adults and as prunes are good for children, a prune betty makes a healthful and pleasing dessert. Here is how it is made.

Soak and cook a quarter of a pound of prunes until they are tender. Butter a small baking dish and place in it a layer of thin slices of stale bread, slightly buttered. Then put in a layer of prunes, halved, pitted and spread rather coarsely. Then more bread and prunes and a top layer of bread butter side down.

Make a custard of two cups of milk, one-fourth of a cup of sugar, two well beaten egg yolks and a little salt. Pour this over the pudding and bake about an hour or until well cooked. Whip the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth, add a little powdered sugar and dot by spoonfuls all over the pudding. This can be eaten hot or cold, but it is better hot. The quantity makes a dessert enough for four children.

Milady's Boudoir

Rejecting the Waistline.

Many women have a mistaken idea that a tight corset will solve the problem of a shapely waist. From outward appearance they will, to a great extent, but it is undeniable that sometimes an ultimate arrangement of the internal organs is the price paid. Such constrictions impair the action of the diaphragm, interfere with the process of digestion and with the circulation of the blood. Sometimes this causes grave injury.

Corsets, of course, are necessary for most women, thin or stout, but instead of pushing the fat from one place to another, which is what tight lacing does, you should get rid of the fat. A good exercise for reducing the waistline is to lie flat on the floor and raise one leg to an upright position. Then do the same with the other leg. Continue this until you feel fatigued. There is nothing better for a trim waist than to touch the fingers to the floor without bending the knees. For high about the head and then brought down with a sweeping motion. Be sure and keep the knees stiff, for should they bend no benefit will be derived.

Another exercise that will help is to take a tabouret or a low stool and place a cushion on it. Lie face down on the cushion, grasp the legs of the stool with both hands, raise the legs slowly and then lower them. This slow movement gives one control of the muscles. Repeat the exercise five times at first and increase the number each day.

A baking secret that will interest every cook

ONE of the most difficult things in baking is to get a cake that has a real delicate flavor, and yet sufficiently pronounced to satisfy. This problem has now been solved.

Karo gives just the delicate flavor to a cake that appeals to refined women everywhere. Many chefs in leading hotels use Karo exclusively for sweetening cakes, pies and French pastries.

Yet Karo is much more than a delicious food dainty. It is one of the greatest of all energy-producing foods, made in a way that brings out every bit of its goodness and wholesomeness.

Do you know what Dextrose is?

Millions of Karo users everywhere will be interested to know that Karo is practically a predigested food. For Karo is largely what bread and cake have to become before they can be absorbed and utilized as energy-producing foods.

This statement, from the highest medical and food authorities, must convince you more than ever that Karo is one of the best and most wholesome foods you could possibly give the family.

It helps make strong, sturdy boys and girls, with energy and endurance for study and play.

Your Protection

Do not be deceived by cans containing syrup that might look like Karo. The name "Karo" is on every can of original Karo—look for it, and be assured of full weight cane and highest quality.

BLUE Karo

The standard table syrup. Also for cooking, baking and candy making. Light brown color, delicious flavor—no heavy-bodied syrup.

RED Karo

The Ideal Syrup for every use—for cooking, baking, candy making and preserving. Because of its heavy-like appearance many prefer it as a spread for cakes, biscuits, breads.

GREEN Karo

Flavored with highest grade real maple sugar. Very moderate in price—absolutely pure. The makers of Karo are the world's largest users of the highest grade maple sugar—over a thousand tons used annually.

BODY OF NEWARK SOLDIER ARRIVES

The body of Private James Edward

Reich, who died in France on Ar-mistic Day in 1918 of a wound received on November 7, arrived in Newark

this afternoon and was taken by Criss

Luthers to the home 421 Henderson avenue.

Private Berkshire was born June 7,

1891 in this city and was the son of

Mr. and Mrs. Sheelrick Berkshire. He was a glass worker and had been employed at the Heisey plant here and later worked in Pittsburgh.

He enlisted in the army and served a year in France and was a member of Company K, 28th Infantry, first division.

He was also a member of the Woodmen lodge.

Surviving are the parents, four sisters and one brother.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home of Rev. P. E. Wright, pastor of the East

Main street United Brethren church will officiate and burial will be made in Cedar Hill.

Last night's preliminary game in the a hard played game and not without roughness. Only two players were free from fouls. Two Burke men were out-ed from the game on personal fouls.

The team work of the Printers was empty too much for the golfers. While the type men had had of three in the first half they widened the gap in the second period when the opposing team failed to score even as much as in the opening period.

It is possible that these two squads will end in a tie in the league stand-

The champs started the scoring almost from the top off in the big number on the schedule last night. Rolling up 24 points in the first half Heisey's had a lead so big it was discouraging for the Bottle team to play. The absence of "Flick" Huffman as center was keenly felt throughout the contest. Added to the fact that the whole squad was off shooting made it an uphill job.

Good passwork worked the ball down the floor time after time only to have been wasted by a shot that rolled around the hoop or that bounced off it.

There wasn't a lucky shot in the A. B.

C. score card.

Most every player on the Heisey squad contributing to the scoring. Smith alone scoring more field goals than the

A. B. C. team.

The Heisey team has but one more real game in the regular schedule when they meet the Heath refinery crew with DeFrance added. If every man on the regular squad is in the lineup Heath will give a battle that will be remembered as that will also be their last game of the season.

GRANVILLE

(Special to the Advocate.)

Granville, March 30.—Thomas Haven, farmer, and veteran of the Civil War died Tuesday at his home three miles southwest of Granville, following a prolonged illness. Funeral services will be held at the home Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, new time. Interment in Maple Grove cemetery. The deceased is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Loughridge of Cleveland and Mrs. Whitehead of the home.

Funeral services were held here this morning for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Burman of Washington, D. C.

A packed house greeted Captain J. Milton State, who lectured in Ketchikan last Tuesday evening "Our Northern Neighbor" under the auspices of the Bureau of Commercial Economics of Washington, D. C. Two or three reels of moving pictures depicted the haunts of the moose, elk and other wild game; of the buffalo and other animals of the prairie; the stored land of Evangeline; the Hudson's Bay Post, the Champlain Trail, "Out of Doors Canada," where it is always vacation time; the vastness of the Canadian Rockies to Prince Rupert, the new sea-port, thence to Vancouver, and so the U. S. territory. Captain State, born in Ontario, was educated in New York, and has had an adventurous career, having served with the British army in South Africa, in India, in Australia and in the World War until recalled to Canada for recruiting service. Single handed he raised a battalion for overseas service, the 117th Eastern Townships Battalion.

He referred to the "League of Nations" as exemplified by the Dominion of Canada and the United States during a hundred years with not a single fortification along the 4,000 miles of boundary; of the spruce furnished by Canada for the 55 percent of the white paper used in the U. S.—a supply of material which is estimated at least 25 years longer of resources of oil and minerals as well as of the vast farming advantages.

Mrs. Cora Doehman entertained the members of the Fortnightly club this evening at her home in South Prospect street, with a large number of guests included. The program opened with a paper by Mrs. E. H. Hammond on "Japan in the War," in which she spoke of the rescue by the Allies in 1914 that the Japanese safeguard British shipping in the Far East, and destroyed the German menace in the Pacific. In closing she mentioned the fact that on April 1, Japanese troops won in Siberia. The program continued with a paper on "Famous Immigrants," Mrs. E. B. Hopkins cited many instances of what our foreign born population may bring to our civilization. Stephen Girard, John D. Rockefeller, Thomas Fortune, Andrew Carnegie and a host of others were cited as decided assets to this nation. Current events were presented by the members, and at the close of the program refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. T. S. Johnson left Tuesday for Mt. Vernon where she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore until Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jones, who with their family and household staff have been wintering in Florida, are expected to arrive in Granville tomorrow or Friday.

Miss Mary Jones is ill at Monomoy Place. The Granville Bank company, which recently put up a new front of white marble and Bedford granite, is building forming the interior marble floor and wainscoting, fresh paint and new steel cabinets.

Several members of the K. of P. went to Alexandria last night to assist the local chapter of that village in the reception of five candidates.

O'CALLAGHAN WILL BE DENIED REFUGE HERE

Washington, March 30.—The appeal of counsel for Donal J. O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork as a stowaway without a passport several months ago, to have him given asylum in the United States as a political refugee, will be denied by the state department, it was understood today. An opinion may be handed down in the case soon.

O'Callaghan, following his arrest by immigration authorities, was released on bail by former Secretary of Labor Wilson, and when the department of state pressed deportation proceedings against him he was adjudged a "seaman" by the labor department and granted 20 days in which to ship aboard a vessel bound abroad.

The lord mayor, however, ignored the ruling of the labor department and after remaining in the United States beyond his leave, obtained permission of former Secretary Wilson to continue his indefinite stay until an appeal for the right of asylum made to the state department was answered. His present whereabouts is not known here.

SEEKS COURT ORDER AGAINST STATE AUDITOR

Columbus, March 30.—Suit in mandamus to compel State Auditor Tracy to issue his warrant for $385,505 for the purchase of 1418 acres of land in Crawford county, for the site of a proposed new institution for the feeble minded, was filed in the state supreme court today by John J. Stafford of Marion.

The old board of administration bargained for the land, but Attorney General Price recently ruled that the money could not be paid by the state because the former state auditor had failed to certify that funds were in the treasury for the purpose. Auditor Tracy refused to issue a warrant on the basis of the attorney general's ruling.

Go to T. J. Evans today and get a big bottle of WENDELL SALTS, AMBITION BRAND, for sixty cents. If it doesn't do all we claim for it your money back on the first bottle purchased. Try it for indigestion, Biliousness, Headache, Constipation, Gout and Torpid Liver.

GIRLS! DON'T WORRY ABOUT THAT UGLY LOOKING RASH

A Few Applications of Lanolated Iodine Compound Will Quickly Heal It.

Lanolated Iodine is the ideal method of treating a rough, sore pimply skin. Unlike ordinary liniments of iodine, it will not stain or blister. Just rub it in and go to bed and in a few days you will wonder where that ugly looking rash or those unsightly pimples have gone. Your skin will soon become smooth and velvety without a single blemish on it.

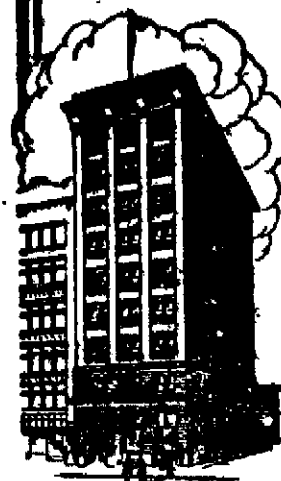

Don't worry another minute—start this simple treatment today. Go to any good drug store and ask for a small jar of Lanolated Iodine. Use it tonight. You will surely be pleasantly surprised at the results obtained.

The soothing, healing and antiseptic virtues of iodine in this ointment are rubbed right in like a vanishing cream, where they quickly absorb the poison, cool, soothe and cleanse the skin, at the same time protecting and soothing the tender skin.
